Students' need and motivation of learning a language is crucial for successful learning and teaching. Greater potential of the learner for developing accurate pronunciation, accent and fluency, he said, the learners have to develop a favorable attitude towards a language and its culture.

Preliminary and preferable role in the natural order of language acquisition for learner is to speak carefully after listening the content perfectly. A good learner is always willing to experiment, listen, ask questions, think and apply what he learned through practice.

Pedagogical, interpersonal skills, and personal qualities of the language learner reflect through the presentation of acquired knowledge through various tools. In the changing scenario of the world, the Teacher centric approach is
